FORESTRY MEETING SCHEDULED FOR DUPLIN COUNTY WOODLAND OWNERS

KENANSVILLE, NC (December 27, 2012) – On January 17, 2013, the NC Cooperative Extension Duplin County Center, along with Mount Olive College and NCWoodlands, will host an informational workshop for Duplin County woodland owners entitled:

Estate Planning and Income Taxes for Duplin County Woodland Owners

Tax planning is complex for most landowners. By attending this workshop, you'll learn about estate tax planning and how to minimize timber income taxes along with where to get help.

Speakers: Guido van der Hoeven, NCSU Forestry Extension
Mark Megalos, NCSU Forestry Extension
Rick Hamilton, Retired NCSU Forestry Extension

The workshop will be held in the Duplin County Center (165 Agriculture Drive) off NC 11 across from James Sprunt Community College in Kenansville and begins at 5:45 PM with a meal served.

Registration is required. To register, contact Wanda Hargrove, Duplin County Extension at (910) 296-2143.

The workshop is part of a project receiving funding from NC Tobacco Trust Fund Commission. The project provides a series of workshops for woodland owners and current/former tobacco farmers who are interested in increasing their profits while enhancing their natural resources. The meal is sponsored by the NC Chapter of the Association of Consulting Foresters, the NC Tree Farm Program, and Cape Fear Farm Credit.
