Working Forest Summit for North Carolina Landowners

Improving Forest Health - Building Family Wealth
Wednesday, March 16, 2016 / Clinton, NC

About the Summit

Interested in improving forest health while building family wealth? If so, register for the Working Forest Summit on March 16, 2016. Forest professionals and landowners will cover topics including:

- The Taxing Business of Forestry
- Growing for Value and Selling for Profit
- Cost Share Options for your Woodlands
- Benefits of Prescribed Burning
- Lessons Learned From Landowners

Attendees will receive materials on forest management and the opportunity to network with landowners and forestry professionals. Speakers include NCSU Extension Forestry faculty, NC Forest Service personnel and successful family forest landowners.

The Summit is made possible through a partnership of the University of Mount Olive Lois G. Britt Agribusiness Center, NC Forest Service, NC State University Extension Forestry, and NCWoodlands. The Renewable Resources Extension Act provides funding for extension activities related to forestry and natural resources at land grant universities. The NC Tobacco Trust Fund Commission provides funding support for the North Carolina Working Forest Summits.

Register to Attend

Advanced registration is required as materials and a lunch will be provided to attendees. Private landowners attend at no charge and natural resources professionals seeking continuing education credits will be charged $90. Landowners and others interested in attending can register one of three ways:

Website: <http://www.ncsu-feop.org/landowners/>
OR

Phone: Extension Forestry at 919-515-5065

Fax or Mail: Use the registration form to the left.
